FCK	Fayette County, Kentucky
FrCK	Franklin County, Kentucky
KBDM	Directory of Births, Deaths, and Marriages Registered in Kentucky, Frankfort, Ky.. This is a multi-volume index of all birth, death, and marriage certificates issued by the state of Kentucky. Births and deaths have been compiled under this state-mandated program since 1911; marriages have been compiled since 1973. Herein, each citation to these records gives the appropriate volume number in which the certificate can be found followed by the certificate's number. Copies of this index are on microform at the Kentucky Historical Society and in the Department of Special Collections at the University of Kentucky's Margaret I. King Library. For the years 1911 through 1999, the index is also available on compact disc.
KVS	Kentucky Department of Vital Statistics Birth, Death, and Marriage Records. Recorded by state law beginning in the 1850s and terminating at the start of the Civil War, these are the earliest systematic records of vital statistics for the state of Kentucky. The system was reinstated for a brief time in the 1870s. Both groups of these records are on microfilm at the Kentucky Historical Society and the University of Kentucky's William T. Young Library.

INTRODUCTION

In 1966, my father, John Arthur Dearing, shared a family document with me: a ledger in which his grandfather, John William Dearing, had recorded the facts of the two marriages and fifteen children of his own grandfather, William Dearing, the subject of this book. Thus, my interest in genealogy began. This book, which is a result of that interest, is based on research by me and many other genealogists, amateur and professional; sources include published and unpublished records of a wide variety, personal recollections, family legends and histories, old pictures, cemetery records and gravestone inscriptions, and other related material, all of which are cited in the endnotes. In actuality, however, this publication is little more than a summary of only a small part of the information that has been gathered. In order to facilitate and hasten publication of some form, I decided to limit this particular book to the ancestors and descendants of the great-great-great grandfather, William Dearing, whose children had been the focus of the ledger entries noted above. A more traditional and complete genealogy of the Dearing family would trace all descendants in the paternal lines of William Dearing's great-great-grandfather, John Dearing, who came to this country from Germany in the eighteenth century. Hopefully, such a publication will be produced someday.

Sources

Wherever possible, primary documents have been used and cited to support statements made here.¹ Where such documentation has not been available, or where it seemed reasonable to rely on the memories of people close to the events catalogued below, secondary sources have been accepted and cited. The reader will note some references to website sources, including the type that consists of lists and charts of ancestors and descendants that appears on a number of genealogical websites. To any genealogist, this sort of tabulation is, by its very nature, fascinating and many are probably as accurate as any other secondary source. However, because these lists and charts usually lack citations, they should be used with extreme caution.

Numbering System

In this book each descendant of the ancestor John Dearing has been assigned a personal number for identification purposes with John himself receiving the number one (1). Each of his children is given a two-digit number with 1 as the first digit and a number corresponding to each child's order of birth as the second digit. Therefore, the numbers of John's children range from 11 to 19 since, it is assumed, he had nine children. This method of adding one digit for each generation is carried forward throughout the text.

William Dearing is the sixth child of the eighth child of John Dearing and, therefore, William's number is 186. All of William's descendants have numbers which begin with the three digits 186. The number of digits indicates the number of generations the person is removed from John Dearing, the presumed immigrant ancestor. If an individual's number is 123456, that person is a member of the sixth generation; his parent's number is 12345, his grandparent's number is 1234, etc. If a couple has more than nine children, then letters are used for the tenth, eleventh, etc., child. For example, the tenth child of a person whose number is 1234 will be 1234A, the eleventh child would be numbered 1234B, etc.

In a general reading of the text, this system can be ignored. However, it can be quite helpful when the reader wishes to move from one part of the text to another or when trying to ascertain any relationship to others listed here.

Acknowledgments

Without the generous assistance of many people, this book could not have been compiled. I extend my sincere thanks to my parents, John Arthur and Anna (Lane) Dearing, Woodford County, Kentucky; my sister, Pam (Dearing) Hutton, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky; my brother, Kevin Lane Dearing, New York City; my soul sister, Arnetta (Winkfield) Hill, Versailles, Kentucky; my aunts, E. Susan (Dearing) Tucker and Ruth Ann (Dearing) Smith, both of Lexington, Kentucky, and Loralie (Dearing) Howe, Pasadena, California; my uncle and aunt, the late Gene Dearing and Aleta (Evans) Dearing, Lexington; my grandmother, the late Grace (Jack) Dearing, Lexington; and my great-aunts Rosalie (Dearing) Nickoson and Lora (Dearing) (Kearney) Robertson, Lexington, now deceased.

Other relatives who have been helpful and who deserve mention here are the late Clay Conner, Indianapolis; Jerry W. Dearing, Salt Lake City, Utah; Delfa (Wright) Ellis, Lawrenceville, Illinois; Louise Ellis, Frankfort, Kentucky; Eunice Eversdyk, Abilene, Texas; Mary Joe McHatton, Versailles, Kentucky; Margaret Alice Murphy, Owenton, Kentucky; Paul Bryan Nickoson, Lexington; Mona Roe, Cardston, Alberta, Canada; Verna (Duffy) Spiegel, Lexington; Barbara Still; the late Mary E. Wharton, Lexington; the late Clementine (Rudder) Wise, Franklin County, Kentucky; and the late Flora Ethel (Dearing) Wooley of Addy, Washington.

Finally I must thank two superb genealogists, who also happen to be relatives: the late Lee Dearing of Everett, Washington, and Don Dearing of Louisville, Kentucky. The persistence of these dedicated researchers led to the discovery of much important information about the Dearings, which they generously shared with me beginning in the 1970s. While I take full responsibility for any inaccuracies and omissions in this book, these two cousins deserve, in a sense, to be listed as its co-authors.

CHAPTER I

FIRST GENERATION

1. JOHN DEARINGER, whose father's name was probably also John, was born about 1733, probably in what is now Germany.¹ He died in 1796 or 1797, in Woodford County, Kentucky.² Prior to 1765, either in Germany or in Pennsylvania, he married MARIA CATHERINA _____. She, too, was probably born in Germany and apparently died after 1810 in Woodford County. It would appear that, except for recent immigrants, almost all persons in the United States today who are named Dearing, Derringer, or Deringer, as well as a number of persons with the shortened version Dearing, are descendants of this couple.

On or immediately before 7 November 1754, the ship John and Elizabeth, which had sailed from Amsterdam to Portsmouth, England, before crossing the Atlantic, docked in Philadelphia. On that date, the passengers, who were identified as former residents of either Hanau or Württemberg in the Palatinate in what is now Germany, took “the usual Oaths and Qualifications.” Among these were a Johannes Därendinger and a Johannes Därendinger, Jr. Those names were translated as “Deringer” in a 1934 publication of the John and Elizabeth's passenger list and, as genealogist Donald Dearing has recently noted, this has led some researchers to accept these persons as ancestors of the Dearingers who later resided in Kentucky (and who are catalogued in this book).³ That assumption, which is not unreasonable, has yet to be proven;⁴ but it should be kept in mind that, by 1790, when the first US Census was taken, at least twenty-two persons named Dearing or a close variation thereof, were residing in Pennsylvania, mostly in the counties of Montgomery, Northampton, and Washington. The details of the exact relationship of these people to each other, to the Kentucky Dearingers, and to a presumed common immigrant ancestor—perhaps John Dearing—awaits further research.⁵

Whatever their own origins, John and Maria Catherina Dearing, whose descendants are the subject of this book, were living in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, by about 1775.⁶ They probably lived in Hempfield Township, just south of the county seat, Greensburg. They were members of the Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church where, between 1776 and 1781, several of their children were baptized. The records of these baptisms (see below) are among the earliest in which members of this family appear.⁷

Around 1784, John Dearing, Jr., and his family migrated to what was then Fayette County, Virginia. (In 1792, the area became Fayette County in the new state of Kentucky). Central Kentucky, where they took up permanent residency, had only recently become accessible to non-natives and the Dearingers were among the earliest white people to settle there. They joined the small but growing group of immigrants who migrated to Kentucky from Pennsylvania and Virginia, coming from the northeast by boat down the Ohio and Kentucky rivers or from Virginia on foot or horseback down the Shenandoah Valley and up through the Cumberland Gap into the Kentucky wilderness. The Dearingers almost certainly followed the former route and, in fact, a legend that survived in some branches of the family well into the twentieth century told of their journey by flatboat down the rivers, further alleging that at least some of the migrating Dearingers still spoke primarily German when they came south. Again, none of this has been proven and it is the sort of family legend that probably never can be proven.

However, we do know that, having arrived in Kentucky, John Dearinger leased about one hundred acres of land there, taking possession of it for the period of his lifetime. This land is just north of Clear Creek in that part of Fayette County that would soon become Woodford County in the central Kentucky region known as the Bluegrass. In fact, John Dearinger took an active role in the formation of Woodford County: in September 1788, he joined a number of other residents of the area, including his son Jacob Dearinger, in signing a petition to the General Assembly of Virginia for the division of the huge county of Fayette into smaller, more governable entities. The petitioners' complaint was based on the fact that many residents of the county lived "so remote from Lexington where our Courts are held that they cannot attend without Incurring a greater expense than they can sustain."⁸ John Dearinger's signature on the petition is the first known written record of anyone named Dearinger living in Kentucky.

The next such record was made in May 1789 when John Dearinger's name appeared on the tax rolls of Fayette County.⁹ He next appears in May 1796, mentioned in a deed of sale between Ransam Langham of Fluvanna County, Virginia, who was acting as attorney for Elias Langham of Berkeley County, Virginia, and Henry Hendricks. The Langhams thereby sold one hundred acres in Woodford County, Kentucky, to Hendricks. The land that was transferred by the deed was the land that had been "leased to John Dearinger for his life [and] whereon he now lives."¹⁰ Hendricks, the grantee in the deed, was John Dearinger's son-in-law, the husband of his daughter Catherine.

John Dearinger evidently died between the date of the Langham-Hendricks deed and 8 June 1797 when his heirs signed a quitclaim deed in favor of his widow, who, unfortunately, was not identified by name in the document. The signers of the deed were John's sons Michael Dearinger, Andrew Dearinger, Joseph Dearinger, and Martin Dearinger, and his son-in-law Henry Hendricks.¹¹

In 1810, a Mary C. Deringer [sic], almost certainly John Dearinger's widow, was listed in the US Census as a head-of-household in Woodford County. She was identified as being over forty-five years of age and at the time was living with one male child under ten and one female between ten and sixteen years. Too young to be her children, this boy and girl may have been Mary's grandchildren.¹² No further record of Mary Dearinger is known and since she does not appear in the 1820 US Census, at least not in Kentucky, it is assumed that she died during the previous decade. She and her husband are probably buried in the rural cemetery that is still extant on the banks of Clear Creek, immediately south of the property on which they had lived.¹³

CHILDREN OF JOHN DEARINGER AND MARIA CATHERINA _____:

11. Michael Dearing, b. probably in the mid 1750s but certainly before 1765 in Pennsylvania, probably in Westmoreland Co.;¹⁴ d. between May and July 1814 in Woodford Co., Ky.; m. 1st c1782 in Pennsylvania to Margaret Mayer;¹⁵ m. 2nd on 25 Mar 1782 in Westmoreland Co., Pa., to Catherine Coghill; m. 3rd on 26 Dec 1807 in Woodford Co. to Barbara Cogville, a widow.¹⁶ He made his last will and testament on 3 May 1814, describing himself as being “low in body but sound in mind and memory”; it was probated in Woodford Co. in July 1814.¹⁷ Don Dearing notes that, shortly after Michael Dearing’s death, almost all of his heirs moved to Indiana Territory.¹⁸

Children by 2nd mar.:¹⁹ i) Catherine Dearing, b. c1783 in Pennsylvania,²⁰ d. after 1850 in Ripley Co., Ind., m. John McFatridge c1802;²¹ ii) John Dearing, m. Elizabeth Lash 20 Jan 1813 in Woodford Co., Ky.;²² iii) Joseph Dearing m. Mary Holloway, had issue; iv) Jacob Dearing, b. 4 March 1787 in Pennsylvania, moved to Jasper Co., Iowa, in 1851, d. there 6 Feb 1873,²³ m. Nancy Cook 16 July 1815 in Jefferson Co., Ind., had issue;²⁴ v) Elizabeth Dearing, b. c1791 in Kentucky, d. 1831-40, probably in Jennings Co., Ind., m. Jacob Riddle by 1814;²⁵ vi) Hannah Dearing, m. Nimrod Coghill 29 Dec 1810 in Woodford Co.,²⁶ possibly moved to Jefferson Co., Ind.

Children by 2nd mar.: vii) Mathias Dearing, b. c1810 Woodford Co., Ky., d. 13 May 1891 Brown Co., Ind., bur. Unity Baptist Church Cem., m. 5 Jul 1836 Johnson Co., Ind., Mary Gosney; she b. c1820 in Ky., had issue;²⁷ viii) (dau) Dearing b. by 1810.²⁸
12. Daniel Dearing, b. 9 Apr 1763 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; d. 10 May 1841 in Hardin County, Ohio; m. Catherine Devoise (or Devine);²⁹ Genealogist Delfa Ellis lists Daniel among the children of John and Maria Catherina Dearing; however, no person by this name was cited in the 1797 quit claim deed mentioned above. Either Daniel was not their son or, if he was, he was not living in the central Kentucky area in 1797. His history awaits further research.
13. Jacob Dearing, b. c1770 in Pennsylvania; d. c1842 in Woodford Co., Ky.; m. 29 July 1789 in Woodford Co. to Elizabeth Hendricks.³⁰ He appears in the US Census of 1830, living in Woodford Co. with one male 10-15 years of age; one 15-20; one 50-60, obviously himself; one female 10-15; one 15-20; one 20-30, and one 50-60, evidently his wife.

Children: i) Daniel Dearing, b. 28 Apr 1790 Woodford Co., Ky.,³¹ d. there Jan 1858,³² m. Francis Ann Veatch 6 Aug 1821 Woodford Co.;³³ ii) John Dearing, b. 1793 Ky., d. 1813-20, m. Polly Hendricks 16 Sept 1812 Woodford Co.;³⁴ iii) Jacob Dearing, Jr., b. between 1790 and 1800³⁵ in Ky., d. 10 Oct 1843 Woodford Co., m. there 12 Jan 1824 to Nancy Veatch;³⁶ iv) Joseph Dearing, b. 9 Aug 1800 Woodford Co., Ky., m. on 6 Aug 1830 in Jessamine Co., Ky., to Fanny Wharton, had issue;³⁷ v) Elizabeth Dearing, b. c1801, m. John Hendricks

- 1 Sep 1822 Woodford Co.;³⁸ vi) Margaret Dearing, b. c1803,³⁹ m. Samuel Wilson, d. after 1852; vii) Sarah E. Dearing, b. c1805, m. John Buchanan 10 Aug 1826 Woodford Co., d. after 1852; viii) David Dearing, b. 1 Jan 1807 Woodford Co., d. 7 Oct 1872 Rush Co., Ind., m. 1 Jan 1828 in Woodford Co. to Jane Veatch;⁴⁰ ix) George Dearing, b. c1811 Woodford Co., d. after 1860, m. Martha Irvine 24 Feb 1835 Jessamine Co., Ky., she b. c1812, had issue;⁴¹ x) Nancy Dearing, b. 3 April 1817 Woodford Co., d. there 19 Mar 1859, m. Joseph C. Wharton 24 Feb 1835 Woodford Co.⁴²; xi) Rebecca Dearing, b. Ky. c1824, m. Henry Wilson 26 May 1840 Woodford Co., he b. Ky. c1817, had issue.⁴³
14. Catherine Dearing, b. c1770 in Pennsylvania; d. Feb/Mar 1837 Woodford Co., Ky.;⁴⁴ m. 29 July 1789 in Woodford Co. to Henry Hendricks. Henry may have died just before 1810 when Catherine was identified as the head-of-household in the US Census in Woodford County. He was certainly deceased by 1817 when his son, Henry, Jr., “infant heir of Henry Hendricks, Sr.,” was apprenticed in Woodford Co. to Littlebery Sublett “to learn the art and mystery of saddlery until he becomes 21 years of age.”⁴⁵ In 1810, Catherine was in the census with two males under 10 years of age; one male between 10 and 15; one female under 10; one female between 16 and 25; and one female between 26 and 44, presumably herself. She was living very close to her brothers Joseph and Martin Dearing at the time and, still, in 1820 when she again appeared as the head-of-household in Woodford Co., living with one male between 10 and 16, one male between 16 and 26; one female under ten; one female between 10 and 16; and one female between 26 and 45. A decade later, in 1830, she was head of a family consisting of one female between 15 and 20 and another (herself) between 50 and 60.
- Children: i) Joseph Hendricks, b. 1800-10;⁴⁶ ii) John Hendricks, m. his cousin Elizabeth Dearing, known as Betsy, 19 Sept 1822 Woodford Co.; iii) Henry Hendricks; iv) Cornelius Hendricks; v) Ezekiel Hendricks, m. _____ Strange 1826, evidently in Woodford Co.; vi) Sally Hendricks, m. _____ Hall; vii) Polly Hendricks, m. Woodford Co. to her cousin John Dearing 16 Sept 1812; viii) Catherine Hendricks, m. _____ Wilson; ix) Lucy Hendricks, m. William Strange; x) Elizabeth Hendricks.
15. Andrew Dearing, b. c1774 in Pennsylvania;⁴⁷ m. 24 September 1794 in Woodford Co. to Dowry Stodghill. He served in the 1st Battalion, Kentucky Militia, under Capt. Joseph McMurtry.⁴⁸ He appeared on the tax rolls of Scott County, Ky., in 1800,⁴⁹ but was in Henry Co., Ky., by the time of the taking of the 1820 Federal census. Evidently, he lived in that area for the rest of his life and died there, after 1840,⁵⁰ leaving many descendants.
- Children: i) John Martin Dearing, b. c1800 Scott or Henry Co., Ky., d. Henry Co. 6 Jun 1826, m. 9 Apr 1913 Henry Co. to Elizabeth Parr, had issue; ii) Andrew Dearing, Jr., b. c1805 Henry Co., Ky.,⁵¹ d. c1875 Henry Co., m. 16 Oct. 1826 Henry Co. to Catherine Peyton. She was born c1804 in Ky. Had issue.⁵²

16. Anna Barbara Dearinger, b. 6 November 1775 in Westmoreland Co., Pa.; baptized there at Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church in Hempfield Township, Westmoreland Co., Pa., on 2 April 1776;⁵³ d. possibly before 1797 as she was not mentioned in the quit claim deed of the heirs of John Dearinger made that year.
- 17. Joseph Dearinger
 - 18. Martin Dearinger, b. 8 August 1780 in Westmoreland Co., Pa.;⁵⁴ baptized there at Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church in Hempfield Township on 24 May 1781; died c1871 near Mackville, Washington Co., Ky. He was probably the Martin Deringer [sic] who enlisted as a private on 10 Nov 1814 and served under Capt. Zachariah Terrell as a soldier in the War of 1812.⁵⁵ On 18 December 1805 in Woodford County, he married Elizabeth (Betsy) Humble, daughter of Robert and Ann (Fitzgerald) Humble.⁵⁶ She was born between 1784 and about 1790, probably in Caroline Co., Va., and was a sister of Jane Humble, who married Martin Dearinger's brother, Joseph. Martin family is listed in 1810 US Census in Woodford Co., living very close to his father-in-law Robert Humble, his relative Ellis Fitzgerald, and his siblings Catherine (Dearinger) Hendricks and Joseph Dearinger. At the time, Martin's family consisted of two males under ten years of age; one male between 26 and 45, presumably Martin; and one female between 16 and 26, presumably his wife. In the 1820 Census, Martin's name appears immediately between those of Catherine Hendricks and Joseph Dearinger, suggesting that they lived on the same or adjacent properties. In 1820, Martin's family consisted of two males between 10 and 16; one male between 26 and 45; two females under 10; and one female between 26 and 45.
Children, all b. in Woodford Co., Ky.: i) Andrew Dearinger, b. c1806, m. 7 Nov 1829 in Mercer Co., Ky., to Nancy Demaree; ii) John Dearinger, b. c1808; m. 1829 to Frances Atkinson; iii) Catherine Dearinger, b. c1811, d. c1845 in Mercer Co., Ky., m. 5 Nov 1829 Lemuel D. Haydon; iv) Elizabeth Dearinger, b. c1815, m. 18 Nov 1846 in Mercer Co., Ky., to Lambert Darland; he b. there Jun 1825, son of Garret Darland and Edna Daniels, and d. 12 Sep 1883; had issue; v) Ann Dearinger b. c1816, m. 1 Aug 1850 to Lemuel D. Haydon; vi) Martin Dearinger, Jr., b. c1822, m. 21 Mar 1843 in Mercer Co., Ky., to Nancy Lay.⁵⁷

- A bullet before the identification number of a person indicates that a more complete account of that person's life and a list of his or her children will be found in the next chapter.

CHAPTER II

SECOND GENERATION

17. JOSEPH DEARINGER, son of John and Maria Catherina Dearing, was born 1 September 1778 probably in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. He was baptized there at the Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church in Hempfield Township on 24 March 1781. He died in Woodford County, Kentucky, in 1824 or 1825.⁵⁸

Joseph Dearing came to Kentucky with his parents and siblings in about 1784. At that time, Kentucky was a county within the state of Virginia, but in 1792, it became a state itself. In that year, the area in which the Dearingers lived became that part of Fayette County, Kentucky that, within a few years, was subdivided to create Woodford County. John Dearing and his family were among the first white settlers in the area and many of their descendants still live in central Kentucky.

On 23 December 1807, in Woodford County, Kentucky, Joseph Dearing married JANE HUMBLE, a daughter of Robert Humble (c1754-1840), a veteran of the American Revolutionary War, and his wife Ann Fitzgerald.⁵⁹ Jane was born between 1784 and 1793,⁶⁰ probably in Caroline County, Virginia,⁶¹ and may died shortly after the birth of her last child, almost certainly in Woodford County.

Joseph Dearing appeared in the US Census of 1810 as the head of a household in Woodford County. Residing with him were one male between the ages of 10 and 16, possibly one of his brothers; two females under the age of 10, who were undoubtedly his daughters; and one female, apparently his wife, who was between 16 and 26 years of age. By the time of the census, Joseph owned about seventy acres on Clear Creek in southern Woodford County; but he and his wife sold forty of those acres to Thomas Davis on 26 June 1813.⁶² Four years later, the Dearingers bought another twenty-four acres, also on Clear Creek, from Jane's father, Robert Humble. This land was just south of the property on which Joseph Dearing's own father had lived and it was here that John and Jane lived for the rest of their lives.⁶³

Like so many of his descendants, Joseph Dearing did not live to see the age of fifty. He died, probably in 1824 or 1825, but certainly by December of the latter year when an inventory of his personal estate, which identified him as deceased, was presented for probate in Woodford County Court. The estate was completely typical for the time and the place: it consisted of one cow, one brown female horse, four pigs, one sheep, one plow, and various other pieces of farm equipment and household furniture; the entire estate was valued at $44.25. These possessions were finally sold on 17 April 1829 with James Hilbert acting as administrator.⁶⁴ Between 1842 and 1844, Joseph Dearing's land, which ultimately consisted of about thirty acres on the waters of Clear Creek in Woodford County, was sold, in separate tracts, by his heirs to Christopher Sanders.⁶⁵ As late as 1886, the site was occupied by the Woodford County Alms House, a structure that may have been a survivor from the Dearingers' ownership of the property, possibly even their old family home, refitted for its final public use.⁶⁶ In any event, the building had been razed by the late 1960s.

According to Don Dearing, who in the 1970s surveyed the area where the Dearingers lived, a road that led to a ferry at the Kentucky River traversed the Dearinger property during the nineteenth century. The road passed very close to a now deteriorated cemetery on the banks of Clear Creek, just south of the Dearinger property. It is highly likely that this is the final resting place of Joseph Dearing, Jane Humble, their parents, and many of their descendants, close relatives, and contemporaries.⁶⁷

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH DEARINGER AND JANE HUMBLE:

171. Mary Ann Dearinger, b. 18 Nov. 1810 Woodford Co., Ky.; d. 10 May 1847 Reddish Twp., Lewis Co., Mo.; m. James Hiram Hilbert 16 June 1826 Woodford Co., Ky.; he b. 1802 in Ky., d. 31 Dec. 1867 Deer Ridge, Lewis Co., Mo.
Children: i) James Dearinger Hilbert, b. 13 July 1826 in Ky., d. 4 Apr. 1900 Deer Ridge, Lewis Co., Mo.; ii) Joseph Wesley Hilbert, b. 1846, d. 1934, m. Nancy Catherine Parrott (1824-1926), had issue.⁶⁸
172. Jane Dearinger, b. 1816 Woodford Co., Ky.; m. James E. Fitzgerald 13 Dec 1832 Owen Co., Ky.; he was b. 1814 Franklin Co., Ky.⁶⁹
Children: i) Churchill Fitzgerald, b. 1833 Owen Co., Ky.; ii) Ann Elizabeth Fitzgerald b. 1837 Owen Co., Ky.; iii) Nancy C. Fitzgerald, b. 1839 Owen Co.⁷⁰
173. David Dearinger, b. c1816,⁷¹ probably in Woodford Co., Ky.; d. Owen Co., Ky., 20 Oct 1893; m. in Franklin Co., Ky., 7 Nov 1842 Mahala Hodson, dau. of John B. and Elizabeth (_____) Hodson.⁷² She was b. c1820,⁷³ probably in Owen Co., Ky. In 1880, David and Mahala Dearinger were living in the town of Monterey in southern Owen Co. There, David was a blacksmith and wagon maker and advertised that he would do repairs "of all kinds promptly attended to; Horse Shoeing neatly done."⁷⁴

CHAPTER III

THIRD GENERATION

176. WILLIAM DEARINGER, son of Joseph and Jane (Humble) Dearing, was born in 1824 in Woodford County, Kentucky. He died in Howell County, Missouri, on 17 January 1898.⁸²

Following the death of his father around 1825, William's name appeared in several legal actions undertaken to settle Joseph Dearing's estate. In 1835, James Hiram Hilbert, who was married to William's sister Mary Ann, was appointed guardian of William and his brother Joseph. Two years later, Christopher Sanders replaced Hilbert as William's guardian and served in that capacity until 8 November 1842 when his account for services rendered was settled with the Woodford County Court.⁸³ On 7 November 1842, William, having reached the age of eighteen, sold his share in his father's estate—five acres of land on Clear Creek in Woodford County—to the trustees of that estate.⁸⁴ As mentioned above, the entire tract of land that Joseph Dearing had bequeathed to his children was sold to Christopher Sanders in 1844.⁸⁵

In 1842 or shortly before, William Dearing moved to the village of Monterey in the southern part of Owen County, Kentucky, not far from the banks of the Kentucky River. He married twice, both times in Owen County. His first wife was NANCY FITZGERALD whom he married on 28 December 1842.⁸⁶ She had been born in Owen County around 1825 and was the daughter of Ellis Fitzgerald and Polly Humble who was, in turn, the daughter of Robert and Ann (Fitzgerald) Humble, making Nancy Fitzgerald and William Dearing first cousins.⁸⁷ Nancy died between 1855, when her last recorded child was born, and 1860. She may have died in childbirth and is probably buried in the Carr Cemetery near the border of Owen and Franklin counties where a number of her relatives are buried.

On 26 September 1860, William married a second time to NANCY ANN CLARK.⁸⁸ She was born 13 January 1834 in Indiana and came to Kentucky in infancy with her parents, Squire Marion and Elizabeth M. (Perry) Clark.⁸⁹ William Dearing, his second wife Nancy, his son James William, and all of his children by his second marriage left Kentucky in 1877.⁹⁰ They may have gone first to Arkansas, but by 1880 they were living in St. Clair County, Missouri.⁹¹ Son James William moved on to Howell County, Missouri, and the rest of the family soon followed. There, William took a one-hundred-sixty acre homestead near Lost Creek, south of the town of Hutton Valley.⁹² One source states that some members of the family later went to Kansas for a time but soon returned to Howell County.⁹³

William Dearinger wrote his last will and testament on 24 November 1897 (or 1891); witnesses were James A. Davis and George W. Eubank; and the will was recorded in Howell County on 17 January 1898.⁹⁴ William left his estate to his wife Nancy, “so long as she lives on the present homestead and remains unmar[ri]ed.” (She renounced claim to that estate, evidently in favor of her children, in February 1898).⁹⁵ William bequeathed five dollars to each of his sons by his first marriage—Joseph E., Francis M., Mason T., and James William Dearinger—all of whom were residing in Kentucky at the time. (James William had returned to that state from Missouri). The remainder of William’s estate was divided between his other survivors, the children of his second marriage: Elizabeth J. Miller, Squire L. Dearinger, David H. Dearinger, Ellen F. Webb, Nancy B. Eubank, Mary S. Wilson, George W. Dearinger, and Emma C. Salvage. William Dearinger was buried in the Epps Cemetery in the village of Pomona not far from the family homestead in Howell County.⁹⁶

Around 1900, William’s widow, Nancy (Clark) Dearinger, temporarily moved to Stevens County, Washington, where her son Squire Lee Dearinger had gone in 1891. Squire Lee’s wife had died in 1894 and Nancy made the long journey to help raise his motherless children. By 1910, however, she had returned to Howell County and that is where she died on 3 December 1913. She is buried next to her husband in the Epps Cemetery there.⁹⁷

CHAPTER IV

FOURTH GENERATION

1761. JOSEPH ELLIS DEARINGER, son of William and Nancy (Fitzgerald) Dearinger, was born in Owen County, Kentucky, in December 1844.¹⁰³ He died in Franklin County, Kentucky, on 13 September 1906.¹⁰⁴

On 1 September 1862, at Mt. Sterling in Montgomery County, Kentucky, he enlisted in the Army of the Confederate States of America. He was eighteen years old at the time. During the War Between the States, Little Joe, as he was known to his contemporaries, served under Col. Henry Giltner in Company G, 4th Kentucky Cavalry. (Giltner reported to famous Kentuckian General John Hunt Morgan). According to his service records, Joe Dearinger was captured by Union forces at Cynthiana, Kentucky, on 14 June 1864 and was imprisoned at Camp Morton, Indiana, until his release on 20 May 1865.¹⁰⁵ According to family tradition, he walked back to his home in Kentucky. At the time, he was still suffering from a combat wound located under his right arm. Evidently, the wound never completely healed, eventually became cancerous, and, many years later, led to his death. Unable to wear any tight garments, such as a top-coat, he wore a shawl for the rest of his life, a fact that is confirmed by at least one photograph taken of him late in his life.¹⁰⁶

Almost exactly two years after Joe Dearinger's release from military duty, on 15 May 1867 in Owen County, he married LUCINDA MARY POE.¹⁰⁷ She was born on 28 January 1850 near Peak's Mill, Franklin County, Kentucky, a daughter of William and Nancy E. (Wise) Poe.¹⁰⁸ Joe and Lucy Dearinger eventually settled in Swallowfield a tiny village located in northern Franklin County, Kentucky, close to the Owen County line. There, in 1898, Joseph purchased twenty acres of land on Long Branch, a tributary of the Elkhorn Creek,¹⁰⁹ and began constructing a house. Undoubtedly, his lingering illness made the work difficult and although the structure had reached a habitable stage, it was still unfinished when Joe died in 1906. Family legend says that, in deference to his memory, his widow would not permit any of her relatives to complete the building and it stood for many years more or less in the condition that Joe Dearinger had left it. As of 2004, the property remained in the family of Joe and Lucy's descendants, but the house, which is just visible from the Frankfort-Owenton Pike, is now in sad ruins.¹¹⁰

Lucinda (Poe) Dearinger died in the house on 11 January 1935. Like her husband and a number of her other relatives, she is buried in the Carr Cemetery near the border of Owen and Franklin counties.¹¹¹

1763. FRANCIS MARION DEARINGER, son of William and Nancy (Fitzgerald) Dearinger, was born on 1 January 1848 in Owen County, Kentucky.¹¹⁴ He married c1869 to SARAH MOREHEAD who was born in Kentucky in about 1852.¹¹⁵ By the winter of 1870, they were living at Peak's Mill in Franklin County, Kentucky. In December 1877, Francis, who was known as Mead Dearinger, acquired land on Clark's Branch in Owen County from George P. Thornton¹¹⁶ and it is assumed that the family moved to that location shortly thereafter. The US Census of 1900 gave Francis Dearinger's occupation as farmer. Sarah, whose name does not appear in that census, evidently died between 1890 and 1900.¹¹⁷

Francis Dearinger died on 12 November 1924 in Owen County at the age of seventy-six. According to his death certificate, the unnamed illness that eventually killed him had lasted five years; he was buried in the "Carr Burry Ground" near the border of Franklin and Owen counties.¹¹⁸

In December 1924, Mead Dearinger's heirs sold the land on Clark's Branch that they had inherited from him to their sister Lula Dearinger of Monterey, Kentucky. The heirs were identified in documents of the transaction as W. M. Dearinger and wife Lulie of Monterey; Maggie Thornton and husband Herman of Eagle Station, Kentucky; Mary Raisor and husband Everett of Newport, Kentucky; Laura Thornton and husband Herbie of Cincinnati, Ohio; Marion Shirley of Cincinnati; and Floyd Moppin.¹¹⁹

17634. Lula Dearing, b. Jan 1890;¹²⁵ m. Harry Franklin.¹²⁶

1764. MASON THOMAS DEARINGER, son of William and Nancy (Fitzgerald) Dearing, was born c1849 in Owen County, Kentucky.¹²⁷ Following the migration of his father and step-mother from Kentucky to Missouri, he spent at least part of his youth living with his brother Joseph's family at Peak's Mill in Franklin County.¹²⁸

On 4 January 1872 he married NANCY ANNE THORNTON who was born in 1851, a daughter of George Perry Thornton and his wife Nancy. The Thorntons were living next door to Mason Thomas Dearing's family in southern Owen County as of 1860 and it was in the bride's home that the wedding ceremony took place.¹²⁹

Between March and June, 1880, while Nancy was pregnant with their fourth and last child, Mason died.¹³⁰ According to family tradition, this was the result of injuries received in a riverboat accident. Shortly after his death, his widow and children moved to Louisville, Kentucky.¹³¹

In Louisville, Nancy married a second time to Edward E. Smith on 25 April 1887.¹³² He died and she married again to _____ Cundiff. She died in Louisville in July 1923 and is buried in Evergreen Cemetery on Preston Highway in Jefferson County, Kentucky.¹³³

- 17644. James Anderson Dearing, b. Dec 1880;¹³⁸ m. c1900 to Magdeline Hausz; d. 1956.

1765. JAMES WILLIAM DEARINGER (DERRINGER), son of William and Nancy (Fitzgerald) Dearing, was born in July 1855 in Owen County, Kentucky; he died on 19 October 1925 in Franklin County, Kentucky.¹³⁹ In 1877, James William (who was known by his middle name and who spelled his last name "Derringer") left Kentucky for Missouri with his parents and half-brothers and sisters. There, in c1877, he met and married

ELVIRA HODSON, daughter of Andrew Jackson and Elvira (Lewis) Hodson, whose family had also migrated from Kentucky, to Missouri. She was born in 1866 in Monterey, Owen County, Kentucky, and died August 21, 1940 in Thorn Hill, Franklin County, Kentucky.

James William returned to Kentucky with his wife and parents-in-law, probably in the early or mid 1880s.¹⁴⁰ According to his obituary, he was a farmer and lived in Owen County most of his life.¹⁴¹ Both he and his wife are buried in the Bethel Baptist Church Cemetery on the Owenton Road in Franklin County, Kentucky.¹⁴²

1766. ELIZABETH J. DEARINGER, daughter of William and Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing, was born on 6 July 1861 in Owen County, Kentucky. She died after 1930, probably in Howell County, Missouri.¹⁴⁴

She married in Howell County on 1 August 1894 to JAMES L. MILLER; this was his second marriage.¹⁴⁵ He was born in December 1849 in Tennessee and died between 1910 and 1920 in Howell County, Missouri. He was a farmer.¹⁴⁶ In 1930, Elizabeth Miller, widow, was living in Howell County with her son Isaac.¹⁴⁷

1767. SQUIRE LEE DEARINGER, son of William and Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing, was born on 9 January 1863 in Monterey, Owen County, Kentucky.¹⁵⁰ He was named in part for his grandfather, Squire Marion Clark. He died on 23 December 1939 in Addy, Stevens County, Washington.¹⁵¹

In 1877, Lee Dearing migrated with his parents and siblings to Howell County, Missouri. There, in Burnham, on 30 August 1887, he married SARAH ELIZABETH HUFF, the daughter of William M. and Permelia J. (Rudd) Huff, natives of Tennessee.¹⁵² Sarah was born in Howell County on 29 October 1867 and, according to a contemporary source, “received a good education.”¹⁵³ In 1891, Lee and Sarah Dearing, as well as her parents and siblings, moved to Stevens County, Washington, where Lee Dearing operated one of the area’s most productive sawmills. The following biographical sketch, published in 1904, describes Lee Dearing’s life:

After thoroughly investigating various sections of the country, he settled in Stevens county on a homestead where he now lives, two miles west of Addy. Mr. Dearing was without capital, except a courageous heart and two strong hands. He immediately took hold of the resources of the country and the fact that he is now worth many thousands demonstrates conclusively that he was possessed of both ability and enterprise. He rented a farm until 1894 then bought an interest in a sawmill, after which he bought more land close to his homestead and has since added enough to make his estate over four hundred acres. After establishing himself well in this county, he returned east and brought his aged and widowed mother to share his home. In 1901 he bought a mill site and erected a fine structure which was burned to the ground with a total loss of both mill and machinery, before a board was sawed. He immediately rebuilt and has a very valuable saw mill which he is conducting as well as overseeing his large estate Our subject received his education by close and diligent application in the various schools where he resided and at times when he had a few moments to pick up a book. The school facilities were very poor in his native place but so well did he improve his moments that he is a man of excellent information Mr. Dearing is a member of the Baptist church, belongs to the W. W. and is an active worker for the advancement of the interest of the community. He is a Democrat.¹⁵⁴

Sarah (Huff) Dearing died on 26 June 1895 in Addy, Stevens County, Washington, evidently due to complications in childbirth. Both she and her husband are buried in Addy.

176C. MARY SUSAN DEARINGER, daughter of William and Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing, was born in Owen County, Kentucky, on 13 November 1871.¹⁶⁹ She moved with her parents and siblings to Missouri in 1877. Her twin brother, John, died in infancy.

She married JAMES SHORT WILSON on 6 January 1891 in Howell County, Missouri.¹⁷⁰ Shortly after the year 1900, they moved to Stevens County, Washington, and then, in 1911, to Alberta, Canada. The following account of the family was published in 1974:

The Wilson family came originally from the state of Missouri. They lived in Washington for a few years, and then came to Alberta in the spring of 1911. The offer of free land and the hopes of a bright rich future brought the Wilsons to this country. The family of ten, including eight children, traveled by train to Warner, Alberta. They lived there for a month while the men of the family built a shack on the homestead, forty miles east of Warner. This shack and a tent was their home for the first summer, but by fall they had a house to live in.¹⁷¹

James Wilson was born 23 December 1867 in Tennessee and died in Taber, Alberta, Canada, on 17 November 1929. Mary died in Addy, Stevens County, Washington, on 25 March 1938. She is buried there in the Summit Cemetery.

176E. GEORGE WASHINGTON DEARINGER, son of William and Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing, was born in Owen County, Kentucky, on 4 March 1874.¹⁸⁰ He married on 3 September 1891 in Howell County, Missouri, to SARAH ELIZABETH WEBB.¹⁸¹ She was born 14 February 1869 in Howell County, a daughter of J. W. and Mary

(____) Webb. In about 1899, they moved to Addy, Stevens County, Washington, where, like some of his brothers, George Dearing was a lumberman.¹⁸²

Sarah died in Spokane, Washington, on 11 June 1933. Following her death, George married a second time, on 9 May 1938 in Colville, Stevens County, to Ida Estella Shaw. She was born 8 November 1883 in Lockhart, Jackson County, West Virginia, a daughter of Norton Howell and Hannah (DeVoll) Shaw. She had been married twice before she married George Dearing. Her first husband was Jesse Payne McKinney, who she married on 20 March 1900 in Greene County, Arkansas, and with whom she had two sons. He died in 1907 and, that same year, Ida moved her family to Washington State. There she met and married her second husband, William Koerner, a widower, with whom she had eight children. He died in 1927 and, a little over a decade later, Ida married George Washington Dearing. Ida died, aged ninety one, on 21 January 1974 in Stevens County.¹⁸³ She chose to be buried next to her last husband who, family legend records, was the love of her life.¹⁸⁴

George Dearing died in Colville, Stevens County, on 18 December 1943. He and both his wives are buried there in Summit Valley Cemetery.¹⁸⁵

176F. EMMA CAROLINE DEARINGER, daughter of William and Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing, was born on 30 October 1877 in Missouri, probably in St. Clair County.¹⁸⁸ Her parents and siblings moved from Kentucky to Missouri shortly before her birth.

She was in Washington State by 10 November 1896 when she married JOHN FRANKLIN SALVAGE.¹⁸⁹ He was born 10 July 1869 in Iowa, a son of John and Emma (Phillips) Salvage who were natives of England and New York, respectively.¹⁹⁰ A brief description of Frank Salvage was published in 1904 and states that when he was seventeen, he began the work of life in earnest, taking up first the business of handling vineyards. Finally he decided to turn to the west for wider fields and accordingly he sought out

Stevens county [Washington], where he engaged in sawmilling for five years. In 1891 he took up a homestead and has devoted considerable attention to farming and raising stock. . . . Frank Salvage is one of the popular young men of Stevens county, has manifested an industry and close attention to business together with a good walk that have given him the confidence of the people and he has a host of friends.¹⁹¹

Around 1908, the Salvages moved to Oregon for a few years; but they were back in Stevens County, Washington, by 1915. Emma Salvage died there in Chewelah on 7 January 1939; Frank Salvage died in Colville, Stevens County, on 18 December 1941. They are buried in the Addy Cemetery.

CHAPTER V

FIFTH GENERATION

17611. JOHN WILLIAM DEARINGER, son of Joseph Ellis and Lucinda (Poe) Dearinger, was born at Monterey, Owen County, Kentucky, on 4 June 1869.¹⁹⁵ In his youth, he moved with his family to the village of Swallowfield, which is just across the border of Owen County in northern Franklin County, Kentucky. It was there he met SARAH ANN ATHA, daughter of Eli Francis and Amanda Ann (White) Atha. She had been born on 30 August 1876 in Owen County, the first of nine children.¹⁹⁶ John Will and Sallie were married at “Henry True’s in the County of Owen in the presence of Henry and Edgar True” on 24 December 1895.¹⁹⁷ The following year, they settled in Swallowfield where, family tradition says, Sallie Dearinger managed a hat shop.

Around 1901, John Will took his family west to homestead in the state of Washington. They settled in Stevens County, near the town of Addy, where a number of his aunts and uncles had already moved. He built a small white house there and joined his Uncle Lee Dearinger in the logging business. Excerpts from letters he wrote to his parents back in Kentucky give some idea of the pioneer life that the homesteaders were leading at the turn of the century. “We are all well,” he wrote early in 1904,

The children are fat as pigs and I am in the best of health. . . . I am out in all kinds of weather and in water 3 feet deep but I am 10 years younger than when in Ky. . . . What is Pearl [his sister] and her man going to do? Tell them not to settle down there, to strike out to some part of the country where there is land and wages to be had. . . . I guess you heard that John Graves has gone to Canada for more land. He is well pleased with the out look.¹⁹⁸

In 1909, John Will followed the lead of his friend Graves, who had also headed west from Kentucky, and went to Canada in search of more and better land. The Dearingers settled there on a 320-acre homestead near the village of Lucky Strike in southern Alberta. Their land was on the waters of the Milk River, just north of the Montana border, and the nearest town of any size was Lethbridge, Alberta.¹⁹⁹

The year after the move, in 1910, Sallie Dearinger wrote of their new life in a letter to her parents or in-laws. “I have been so busy since we moved . . .,” she reported, “I have had so much sewing for the children going to school I think we will have a fine place when we get out on our farm. We have 320 acres of the prettyest land you ever looked at. We will go on it in about three weeks.”²⁰⁰

Many years later, in 1973, the following account, written by the descendants of other pioneers of the area and people who knew the Dearingers in the early 1900s, was published as part of a local history:

John and Sarah Dearinger with their two children moved from Kentucky to Addy, Washington in 1900. They remained there for a few years, and then with five children they moved to southern Alberta. Like many others they wanted to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the Homestead Act. They traveled by train to Lethbridge, then to Warner and Lucky Strike by covered wagon. While a house was being built, the Dearinger family lived in a tent near the Lucky Strike store. . . . From their homestead days the Dearingers recall many a hassle with the elements. In 1913 and 1916 there were heavy snows and frequent blizzards. Livestock died of starvation. Winds of tornado velocity were known to move houses off their foundations and doors off barns—sailing them through the air. . . . John Dearinger dug a 25 foot well on his place. One sub-zero day, Paul, who was about twelve years old, went with his brother, June, to water the horses at the well. Paul climbed up on the well curbing to mount his horse, slipped and fell into the well. June, who was fourteen at the time, climbed down the stony sides of the well and rescued his brother. He said later he had no idea how he did it. Fortunately neither suffered any ill effects. . . . Escapades, too were not unknown. The Dearinger brothers, Paul and June decided to go for a sail across the prairie. They rigged a huge sail on the springwagon and put lots of grease on the wagon wheels. Then they tied a guide rope on the axle, and waited for a windy day to see what would happen. What happened was more than they bargained for. They finally got the thing stopped about a mile away, having only touched ground now and then!²⁰¹

The family had intended to settle permanently in Canada and, as part of that plan, John Will became a Canadian citizen in 1913. But the next four years were extremely difficult for the prairie residents and in July 1917 John Will requested and received permission to leave Canada in order to return to Kentucky for a few months, “for the purpose of business.”²⁰² Evidently, he wanted to look into the feasibility of moving back to his native state, and in 1918, he and his family returned to Kentucky. The only exception was the eldest child Izora who had married and who chose to raise her family in Alberta.

Back in Kentucky, the Dearingers moved into a new home in Lexington on Breckinridge Street. John Will was employed in that city as a building contractor. In fact, his interest in that profession, as opposed to farming, may have been at least part of the reason for the return to Kentucky.²⁰³

Sallie (Atha) Dearinger died in Lexington on 6 April 1926; her husband soon followed. He died there, in their house on Breckinridge Street, on 30 June 1826 after a short illness.²⁰⁴ The hardships that they had endured during the long move to Washington and then Canada, with young children in tow, and the difficulties of life on the Canadian prairie, with its harsh and unpredictable weather, is evidenced by the relatively early and nearly simultaneous deaths of John and Sarah. They are buried next to each other, far from their northern homestead, in the Lexington Cemetery.²⁰⁵

17613. HENRY THOMAS DEARINGER, son of Joseph Ellis and Lucinda (Poe) Dearinger, was born in March 1877 in Franklin County, Kentucky.²⁰⁶ He married EMMA GRAVITT, daughter of William and Mary Frances (_____) Gravitt of Swallowfield, Kentucky, on 30 October 1902. The ceremony took place in Swallowfield “in the presence of Thomas Graves and Heb Dearinger with the Rev. J. H. Cannon officiating.”²⁰⁷

Tom Dearinger was killed on 17 August 1925 “when he was accidentally struck by an automobile as he alighted from a Lexington-bound interurban at McKee’s cross roads on the Versailles-Frankfort pike” in Woodford County.²⁰⁸

17614. HEDGEMAN MARTIN DEARINGER, son of Joseph Ellis and Lucinda (Poe) Dearinger, was born 13 June 1880 in Franklin County, Kentucky.²⁰⁹ He was named in part for his mother’s brother, Hedgeman Poe. The name is an interesting one as it can be traced in the family for a number of generations. Lucinda (Poe) Dearinger was a great-granddaughter of Hedgeman Triplett, (1760-1837) a Revolutionary War veteran who came to Kentucky from Virginia and who carried the name his father’s mother’s family, the Hedgemans, “an old Potomac family.”²¹⁰

Hedgeman Dearinger, who was known as Heb, was a farmer, carpenter, and wagon maker. He married MARY ELIZABETH WRIGHT on 10 October 1905 in Frankfort, Kentucky. She was born in 1883 in Scott County, Kentucky, a daughter of William and Maria (_____) Wright.²¹¹ She died in Franklin County on 20 June 1919.²¹²

Following his wife’s death, Heb Dearinger married a second time, c1920, to JULIA ANN BARNES, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Carr) Barnes.

Heb Dearinger died at the home of one of his daughters in Minorsville, Scott County, on 28 February 1948. He was buried in the Frankfort (Kentucky) Cemetery.²¹³ Following his death, his widow remarried on 15 September 1956 in Franklin County, Kentucky, to William H. Baxter, son of James William and Lula (Kukill) Baxter.²¹⁴

CHAPTER VI
SIXTH GENERATION

176111. IZORA MARY DEARINGER, daughter of John William and Sarah Ann (Atha) Dearing, was born on 4 December 1896 in Franklin County, Kentucky. When she was about five years old, she moved with her parents and siblings to Stevens County, Washington; in 1909 the family moved on to Alberta, Canada. There, she met and, on 21 December 1915, married BERTRAM FREDERICK ROE.³⁴⁷ He was born in Sussex, England, on 16 August 1885 and immigrated to Canada, with his brother Norton in 1910. The following account of the Roes was published in 1974:

[The Roe brother's] first work was in the pulp mills of Ontario. However they soon came out west to Lethbridge where Bert's first job was cooking in the old White Lunch Cafe. From there he went to work on the Raine's farm at Warner. The east country was just being opened to homesteaders at this time so Bert and his brother filed on three quarters in the Lucky Strike area, around 1913.

Since a building was their first priority, the Roes hauled lumber from Warner to build themselves a small "lean-to". As it turned out there was not enough height at the lower end of the room for the kitchen table.

In 1915 Bert married Miss Izora Dearing a neighboring homesteader's daughter. Their's was one of the romantic stories of the early days. They eloped from Lucky Strike School while Izora was still a pupil there, and drove by horse and buggy to Warner to be married.

The Roes lived on their homestead until 1923 when both brothers moved to the Woolford area near Cardston, where they farmed until their retirement.³⁴⁸

Bert Roe died in Alberta in November 1959. Izora died there, near Lethbridge, on 26 May 1961. She was buried in the Archmount Memorial Gardens in Lethbridge.³⁴⁹

176112.JUNE LEWIS DEARINGER, son of John William and Sarah Ann (Atha) Dearinger, was born on 2 June 1898 in Swallowfield, Franklin County, Kentucky.³⁵¹ When he was two years old, he moved with his parents and siblings to Stevens County, Washington, and then, in 1909, to Alberta, Canada. There, on the southern plains, the family settled on a 320 acre homestead where they remained until 1917. June Dearinger and his brother Paul and sisters Izora and Rosalie attended the Lucky Strike School near their home.³⁵² In 1917, the whole family, except Izora, returned to Kentucky where they lived on Breckenridge Street in Lexington, Fayette County.³⁵³

In the early summer of 1918, June Dearinger met GRACE WINIFRED JACK who lived nearby on Chestnut Street in Lexington. By the end of the summer, they were in love; they married on 21 June 1921 at the bride's house. The wedding party consisted of Paul and Rosalie Dearinger, brother and sister of the groom, and Almeda Warnock and Frances Brandt, cousins of the bride. The Rev. Edward E. Gotherman officiated.³⁵⁴

Grace (Jack) Dearinger was a daughter of William Arthur and Emily Susan (Tillett) Jack. She was born in Chattanooga, Hamilton County, Tennessee, on 31 March 1900. Her father was a native of Atlanta, Fulton County, Georgia, and her mother was from Lexington, Fayette County, Kentucky. In 1901, the Jacks moved to Lexington where Arthur Jack opened one of the first movie theaters in town. He became a well known citizens of the town during the early decades of the twentieth century. After his wife's death in 1922, he lived with his daughter's family for the rest of his life.

June Dearinger followed the trade of his father and worked as a carpenter and in the construction business in Lexington's east end. His plans to re-settle his family on the Dearinger homestead in Washington state ended with the death of both of his parents in 1926. The uncertainties and difficulties of the life of a working-class family during the late 1920s and early 1930s are witnessed by the fact that the June Dearinger family moved fifteen times, although within Lexington, between 1926 and 1934.

In the early years of the New Deal, June Dearinger worked on a number of public works projects and by 1937 he had gained enough experience to become a construction superintendent, the job he held for the rest of his life. During World War II, three of his five children served in the armed forces. In 1944, he and his family moved temporarily to Knoxville, Tennessee, where he worked on the Manhattan Project for Stone and Webster Corporation. The family returned to Lexington in 1946 where June continued to work until his death which occurred at his home on Loudon Avenue on 13 October 1955.³⁵⁵

Grace Dearinger married a second time to Augustus L. Diamond in Lexington on 25 November 1956. He was born in Jessamine County, Kentucky, in 1900, and had married first to Ethel Metz by whom he had issue; he died on 25 February 1980 in Lexington.³⁵⁶ Grace Dearinger Diamond died on 16 January 1994 at her home in Lexington, Kentucky, after a long illness. She was buried beside her first husband in the Bluegrass Memorial Gardens, Jessamine County, Kentucky.

- ⁴ With only the heads of families named, the passengers on the John and Elizabeth were grouped by numbers that Strassburger (see above) assumed to be the ship's cabin numbers. If that is correct, Johannes Därendinger was sharing his cabin (no. 69) with a Jacob Gander; and Johannes Dearing, Jr., was either alone or, more likely, with dependents in his cabin (no. 71). It should be stated, too, that a Hans Duringer had arrived in Philadelphia on board the ship Bennet out of Rotterdam and Portsmouth in August 1750 (Strassburger, 1: 428-29).
- ⁵ The following were listed as heads of family in the state of Pennsylvania in 1790: Catherine Daringer, Montgomery Co., 1 male over 16 years of age, 5 males under 16, 4 females; Henry Daringer, Easton, Northampton Co., 1 male over 16, 2 males under 16, 3 females; Philip Daringer, Upper Milford, Northampton Co., 1 male over 16, 1 female; John Derringer, Washington Co., 1 male over 16, 1 male under 16, 2 females. These records have been published in US Bureau of the Census, Heads of Families, 1790, Pennsylvania (Washington, DC, 1908), 159, 171, 180, 257.
- ⁶ The baptismal record of their daughter Anna Barbara, which was recorded in Westmoreland Co. in April 1776, suggests their residency in that county by that year (William Arter Zundel, History of Old Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church [1922], 197).

⁸² There is some confusion as to the date of William Dearing's death. In May 1912, his son-in-law James L. Miller completed an application for letters of administration (Howell Co., Mo., Will Bk. F) in which he stated that William had died on 1 Nov 1894. However, William's last will and testament would appear to be dated 24 Nov 1897, although the final digit of the year as written in that document might be read as a "1" (Will of William Dearing, Howell Co., Mo., Will Bk. F:128). It is possible, too, that the clerk who transcribed the will could have erred; he or she certainly did so in recording the name of William's son Mason as "Natheron". The inscription on William's gravestone in the Epps Cemetery, which gives his death year as 1890, confuses the issue further.

⁸⁴ Deed of William Dearing to Trustees of Estate of Joseph Dearing, 7 Nov 1842, WCK Deed Bk. R:177. This deed states that William Dearing was residing in Owen Co., Ky., at the time.

⁸⁶ Marriage License of William Dearing and Nancy Fitzgerrald [sic], OCK Marriage Records (unbound), no. 447.

⁹⁷ Inscription, gravestone of Nancy Dearing, Epps Cemetery; US Census 1910, Howell Co., Mo. Family tradition states that Nancy Ann (Clark) Dearing was scalped by Indians, presumably after the migration to Missouri, and somehow survived the ordeal. A reference to her having received some sort of injury was made by her grandson John William Dearing in a letter he wrote to his parents on 27 Feb 1904 (collection of the author): “Grandmother D had her head cured when it seemed as if it would never get any better.”

⁹⁸ The names of the children of William Dearing by both of his marriages were recorded by his grandson John William Dearing in a ledger which the latter kept beginning in about 1899 and which is now in the possession of a descendant, Paul Bryan Nickoson, Lexington, Ky.

¹⁰¹ This birth year is an estimate based on the gap in the birth years of the living children of William and Nancy (Clark) Dearing as given in U.S. Census, St. Clair Co., Mo., 1880.

¹⁰⁶ An apparent reference to this wound was made in an extant letter written on 27 Feb 1904 by John William Dearing to his parents, Joe and Lucinda: “What does papa do? Anything? Or is his arm too sore to work? I guess he can get about as well as ever; is he having it treated?” Copies of the photograph mentioned in the text are in possession of the author.

¹⁰⁸ Death certificate of Lucinda Dearing, Bureau of Vital Statistics, Commonwealth of Kentucky, 2:927. Family legend says that a relative known as “Pepper” Poe brought the family to Kentucky by way of the rivers. It is known that William Poe was the son of Edmund Poe, who had come to Kentucky from Virginia, and Nancy Triplett, daughter of Hedgeman and Nancy (Popham) Triplett. Hedgeman Triplett was a son of John and Lucy (Abbett) Triplett and served in the Colonial army during the American Revolution. His name was passed down to his descendants in several lines, including that of the Dearings, over many generations. See the somewhat unreliable Albert H. Hord, “Genealogy of the Triplett Family,” William and Mary Quarterly 21 (1912): 33-34; 22 (1912): 115-34, 175-81. Nancy E. (Wise) Poe was a daughter of William and Lucy (Etherton?) Wise who came to Kentucky in the early 1800s from Culpepper Co., Virginia. See Will of William Wise (FrCK Will Bk. 3:215-16), written 24 May 1870, probated 3 June 1872; OCK Marriage Bonds: 263; and OCK Vital Statistics 1 (1857).

¹¹¹ Death certificate of Lucinda Dearing

¹³⁰ OCK Census, 1880, Monterey District. Nancy Dearing appears as the widowed head-of-household in that census and, at the time, was living next door to her brother-in-law Francis Marion Dearing. Her household was enumerated on 7 June 1880, meaning that Mason Dearing died between March 1880, by which time his youngest child would have been conceived, and that census date, when Nancy appeared as a widow.

¹³¹ On 28 Apr 1881 Nancy A. Dearing sold her interest in her father's estate in Owen Co. to Andrew J. Webster (OCK Deed Bk. 28: 532). This action may have been in preparation for her leaving the county.

²⁰⁵ Gravestone inscriptions, Lexington Cemetery. John Arthur Dearinger remembers seeing men with tall, pointed hats around the grave of his grandfather, John Will Dearinger, on the day of his burial in 1926. This and a reference made by John Will in a letter written in the 1920s suggest the possibility of his having been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.
